White House for 'pot' penalties

WASHINGTON — The Ford administration is not ready to support removal of criminal penalties for possession of marijuana for personal use, a White House official told Congress Tuesday. Instead, it is watching the experience of Oregon, New Mexico and other states which are trying, with variations, to discourage marijuana smoking with a fine but no criminal penalties, said Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention. "The concern now is to learn more about the state experiences," DuPont told the Senate subcommittee on alcoholism and narcotics.

Police make good try

MIAMI BEACH — Police searching for marijuana raided a school bus headed for Miami Beach Senior High Tuesday and turned up two bottles of Mogen David wine and a pair of dice.

Played his part

NEW YORK — A Brooklyn man who played a minor hood in the movie "The Godfather" was convicted Monday night on charges of threatening to kill a doctor to keep him from testifying in a loan shark case. The defendant, John Discola, 22, was found guilty shortly before midnight of attempted coercion in the first degree. Police said Discola was a singer who played a bit part in "The Godfather," which drew an estimated 70 per cent of the American television audience Monday night while Discola was waiting for the jury to return its verdict.

Easton cab rates go up

HARRISBURG — The Public Utility Commission has authorized Yellow Cab of Easton and Easton Taxi to increase base fares by 20 cents effective Saturday. The lines will raise the metered rate for the first mile from 80 cents to $1 and the charge for each succeeding mile will go from 40 cents to 50 cents.

French unions go on strike

PARIS — French workers heeding union calls for a one-day general strike disrupted much of the nation's activity Tuesday and an estimated 200,000 demonstrators marched in Paris. The strike by union members demanding higher wages and job security disrupted transportation, radio and television, hospital, bank, school and utilities. But absenteeism was limited and the walkout failed to shut down vital services. One western diplomat after a tour of Paris said: "The strike is a moderate failure."

End sought to N.J. teacher strike

TRENTON — The state Public Employee Relations Commission (PERC) Tuesday asked both sides in a strike by 2,600 teachers at eight state colleges to meet to try to end a two-day old walkout which has affected some 60,000 students. Jeffrey B. Tener, the acting director of PERC, called upon the Council of New Jersey College Locals, AFL-CIO, which represents the teachers, and the Department of Higher Education to meet with him here today. The teachers struck Monday at Ramapo, William Paterson, Montclair, Stockton and Glassboro State Colleges over a demand that they receive a pay raise as called for in a contract reopener clause tied to the cost of living.

Nixon gives consent to court-ordered exam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has consented to a physical examination by a court-appointed panel of doctors "if they really feel it is necessary" to determine if he is able to give testimony for the Watergate cover-up trial, his lawyers reported Monday. In a formal "interim report" filed with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, Nixon lawyer Herbert J. Miller Jr. said Nixon's consent was "conditioned on the fact that the examination and consultation with Nixon's doctors will be conducted at absolutely no cost or expense" to the former president. Miller said that Dr. Charles Hufnagel, chairman of the medical team Sirica appointed to look into the Nixon case, is attempting to arrange a "mutually-convenient date" for the examination. "Richard M. Nixon has consented to make available to the judicially-appointed panel his medical records with respect to his recent illness and operation in California and has also consented to be examined by the court-appointed panel if they really feel it is necessary," Miller told Sirica.

Senate delays trade bill for Kissinger testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee moved Tuesday to report out the administration's long-delayed trade bill on condition that the Senate wait for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to testify Dec. 3 before taking action. The provision that the Senate await Kissinger's appearance to answer questions about Soviet emigration policies and non-discriminatory trade treatment for Russia cast doubt on Congress' ability to approve the measure before the Christmas adjournment.

The trade bill, which the administration has sought for the last two years, would accord the Soviet Union the same trading conditions (most-favored-nation status) that the United States gives to its best trading partners. It would also grant U.S. trade negotiators authority to engage in long-delayed international tariff-lowering talks.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr., D-Va., insisted on waiting for Kissinger to give final testimony on the effects of "the so-called Kissinger-Sen. Henry M. Jackson compromise," before the Senate takes up the

Bus strike strands thousands

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Thousands of stranded bus riders scrambled to find alternate transportation Tuesday in the second day of a nationwide walkout by 16,000 drivers and other employees of Greyhound Bus Lines.

Federal mediator Guy Parent called company officials and representatives of the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Divisions back to the bargaining table Tuesday morning in Phoenix, Greyhound's corporate headquarters.

He did not say whether either side had changed its position since talks broke off and the strike began Monday.

The strike over wage hike demands involved drivers, terminal workers and maintenance employees, members of 30 unions. A union official in Milwaukee, Thomas Kriesser, predicted the strike would last three weeks, even if there is quick settlement. He said ratification of a new contract would be conducted by mail, and could take two-and-a-half weeks.

A young Amish couple was particularly hard hit by the strike, caught in Detroit on a trip from Randolph, N.Y., to Grand Rapids, Mich. Their religion forbids travel by auto or airplane, but permits bus travel for long trips although everyday travel is by horse and buggy.

Mitchell seen as W'gate 'fall guy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Convinced that John N. Mitchell was "not gonna make it anyway," President Richard M. Nixon once ordered a top aide to pressure him to take full blame for Watergate and draw attention away from the White House, according to tapes played in federal court Tuesday.

Nixon's order to "go see Mitchell" was relayed to aide John D. Ehrlichman during a lengthy April 14, 1973, meeting at the time the Watergate cover-up was collapsing and threatening to uncover high White House involvement.

The tapes of White House meetings that day, played in the Watergate cover-up trial of Ehrlichman, Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman and two other former Nixon aides, also indicated that Nixon planned to pardon the Watergate principals toward the end of his term as president.

In a meeting with Ehrlichman and Haldeman, the discussion focused primarily on trying to get Mitchell, the former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager, to admit his role in Watergate to the prosecutors because "as Nixon put it — he's not gonna make it anyway."

Nixon said it was "god-damned painful" for him to do that to Mitchell, but that he had to somehow "prick the god-damned bull and take the heat."

Mitchell was summoned to Washington that day and given the word by Ehrlichman, who was carefully rehearsed beforehand by Nixon and Haldeman on what to say. But Mitchell apparently refused.

The portion of tape in which Nixon discussed pardons was so badly garbled it was impossible

Kill four before they die

Arab terrorists gunned down

BEIT SHEAN, Israel (UPI) — Three Arab guerrillas shot their way into an apartment building in this northern town near the Jordanian frontier Tuesday and Israeli commandos gunned them down in a lightning raid three hours later. The guerrillas killed two men and two women in the building, including one couple in an apartment on the second floor where the Arabs died in a hail of bullets fired by storming commandos, the military command said. Twenty-three other persons were injured, most of them when they jumped from windows in the 12-apartment building, and were taken to a hospital in nearby Afula. The command originally said four guerrillas attacked the building but later said examination of one of the bodies showed it to be a resident of the apartment, Yehuda Bebas.

Military and national police spokesmen said an earlier report from a police inspector in this town that one Israeli died of head injuries suffered when he jumped from his window was erroneous. Defense minister Shimon Peres said Israeli armed forces would hunt down Arab guerrillas until "the last one of them is eliminated."

In East Jerusalem, anti-Israeli riots erupted for the second straight day and high school girls threw rocks at Israeli police until they were driven back with streams of green-dyed water. Thirty of the schoolgirls were arrested.

Philippine ambassador, hostage freed by gunman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A mental examination was ordered Tuesday for a Filipino gunman who held his country's ambassador and an aide hostage at gunpoint in their embassy until he received assurances of a speedy trip from Manila to the United States for his teenage son.

Federal prosecutors said Napoleon Lechoco seized Ambassador Eduardo Z. Romualdez, 64, and attache Mario S. Lagdameo Monday afternoon, wounding Lagdameo and firing at two police officers who entered the embassy in response to a call for assistance. Lechoco, 44, held the two officials hostage for more than 10 hours until he received written assurances that the last of his seven children, Napoleon Jr., 15, would be allowed to leave immediately for the United States.

Federal prosecutors said he also made other demands, but did not elaborate and these demands apparently played little part in the negotiations which finally resulted in the release of the two Philippine officials about 2 a.m.

Less than three hours after the two men were released the Lechoco youth was placed on a flight bound for San Francisco.

In ordering the mental examination and refusing to allow bail, Chief U.S. District Court Judge George S. Hart rejected arguments by Lechoco's attorney, Gilbert Giordano, that "everything in his (Lechoco's) background is that of a sterling individual."

West End wanderings

Ripping off lights fantastic

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter

REDEERS — Those down to dusk lights that the power companies are recommending to thwart off thieves sure didn't work very well for the Jackson Township Fire Company. They installed two lights on the rear side of their building and somebody walked off with all the spouting off the building this month. Firemen claim the only good the lights did was to enable the thieves to see what they were doing.

Attorney Ralph Barthold has threatened to sue Chestnut Hill Township again, this time over the township road that runs through Lake Mineola. Barthold contends that the supervisors do not have 33 feet of right of way for the thoroughfare and are damaging property with wide grading there.

Shick's Store in Saylorsburg has been taken over by a new owner. Word has it that the local grocery will be open again by Christmas.

Chestnut Hill Township residents may be able to read some of their new road signs this month. The posts have already arrived and the signs themselves should be in this week. The road crews will begin erecting them soon if the ground doesn't freeze over.

Fran Dorshimer and Ann Gould came to the annual township officials' convention at the West End Firehouse the other night looking like the Bobsey twins. Both had on identical white turtle neck sweaters. Although they came to the dinner meeting together, neither was aware that the other one had the same sweater on 'til they got to the firehouse.

Hamilton Township supervisors may be in a stew as to whether or not they should name certain roads in the township for legal travel by snowmobiles. The Chestnut Hill Township supervisors made that decision last year. The road from McMichael's to Long Pond is legal for travel there, in case you snowmobilers don't already know it.

If you happen to spot a rather tall, distinguished man carrying a pickel sign at the Chestnut Hill dump in the next few weeks, it's bound to be none other than Jackson Township resident Jane Possinger. The man felt so strongly about keeping the Chestnut Hill landfill open, he said publicly last week he's march if he had to keep it open.

The Western Pocono Jaycees are again going to run their annual Christmas tree lighting contest this year and again, there will be five $25 plaques awarded to local West Enders.

Perhaps you might want to turn the lights back on again this year.

A reliable source tells us that the construction going on in Cherry Valley by Charlie Poalillo is only going to be a large pond. But who knows? It may turn out to be a new honeymoon resort yet.

That playground equipment is scheduled to be installed at the Salem-St. Paul Lutheran Church this week for the kindergarten children attending classes there. It's a commendable project since four separate groups are sharing the expense. The Western Pocono Lions donated $150 for the slide, bars and swing set, the Pleasant Valley Elementary Home School Association donated $200, the Pleasant Valley School Board donated $200, and the Western Pocono Jaycees donated $50 and agreed to erect the playground equipment.

And speaking of the Jaycees, their glass recycling project here is a huge success. In the month that the program has been open, 27 of those 55-gallon drums of glass bottles have been collected. Money from the project will go toward the biddy football program and the group's Burnley Workshop pledge. Glass can be dropped off any Saturday morning at the Chestnut Hill or Polk Township dumps.

That special talent contest scheduled for the West End will be held sometime in January and it promises to have the best male chorus ever. Start practicing now if you want to compete.

More than 35 people have called to enlist in those rug hooking classes in Jackson Township. The bi-centennial activities there are booming with sewing classes being held every Wednesday morning at the firehouse and quilting and taxidermy classes set to begin soon. Another township cake-walk will be held Saturday, Nov. 23 at the Jackson Township Firehouse. A 20-foot Christmas tree will also be decorated by residents with homemade decorations. The beauty will be erected at the township school. If you live in Jackson Township, there's no excuse to miss out on the fun.

Mountain firemen revive unit

MOUNT POCONO — The Mountain Firemen's Assn. has voted to continue as an organization. The unanimous vote came Monday during a meeting called by Don Mercereau, president.

The meeting was called to determine the association's future, because of a lack of interest shown by the 11 members during the past few years.

By voting to continue the association, formed in 1942, members feel it could again become an active and effective mutual aid association.

The next meeting will be held in March, 1975, at the Pocono Summit Volunteer Fire Co., Pocono Summit.

Members of the association include the following five departments: Barrett Township, Buck Hill, Coalbough, Forest Fire Crew 34, Greene-Dreher, Jackson Township, Mount Pocono, Pocono Summit, Pocono Township, Tobyhanna Army Depot, Tobyhanna Township, Tunkhannock Township.

Board names college parents

HUNTINGDON — Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gere, Jr., of Stroudsburg, have been named to the executive committee of the Juniata College Parents Association.

The Parents Executive Committee meets with the college Alumni Council to coordinate the interests and events of the two groups, hosts Parents Weekend at the college and coordinates the annual Parents Fund Drive.

Dreher officials table truck bids

NEWFOUNDLAND — Dreher Township Supervisors tabled action on the awarding of a bid for a 1975 truck with a snow plow Monday.

Nine bids were received after nearly a hour and half discussion. Supervisors felt that in fairness to all bidders they would check specifications with dealers because of some discrepancies. Members will also look at some trucks offered in the bid. Contract will be awarded at the Dec. 2 meeting.

The proposed 1975 township budget will be ready for review at the Dec. 2 meeting and it is expected to be advertised and ready for public inspection shortly thereafter.

Supervisors received a letter from Veep Associates requesting the township master plan be revised to include a central sewerage treatment plant being constructed for Breezewood and Indian Acres Campgrounds located in Dreher and Lehigh Townships owned by George Clause.

The plan to be constructed at a cost of $200,000 is slated for completion in July 1975. In response to the request, supervisors sent a letter stating the township does not have a master plan as yet. However, a sewerage feasibility study was conducted, but it was not adopted since there has been no response from the Department of Environmental Resources as to its approval or disapproval.

Arm of the law reaches Dreher

Police district forms in Wayne

By RUTH VINCE
Pocono Record Reporter

NEWFOUNDLAND — Pocono Highlands Police District, a political subdivision under the direction of Henry W. Kalinowski, sheriff of Wayne County, has been designated by resolution by Dreher Township Supervisors as the official police district for the township.

Supervisors, in passing the resolution, appointed Kalinowski police chief. Fifteen deputies were sworn in and will officially serve Dreher under Kalinowski's direction.

The deputies who will serve without compensation until February 1975 are: Edwin Bailey, Paul Carpenter, George Herzog, Robert Wagner, Harry Garula, II, Stephen Vogt, Vernon Leslie, William Bedson, Nathan Gilpin, Burton Henry, Willie Reif, Sr., James Totten, Roger Rosencranse, Stan Pratt, Jim Finch.

Until an office can be set up in Dreher with a local phone number, residents needing police assistance can call 253-0393.

Dreher Township will be the nucleus of the newly formed political subdivision. Other municipalities without police department can contract with Dreher for services.

In August of this year, Dreher supervisors passed a resolution designating the Wayne County Sheriff's Department as its official police agency.

Dreher had no police department and supporting its own was not thought financially feasible. When police were needed the state police from Honesdale barracks were called.

Dreher officials felt police coverage, badly needed in the township, could not be offered by the state police because of insufficient personnel to patrol the area.

In September, I. Reines Skier, solicitor for the Wayne County Commissioners, issued a statement saying Kalinowski could not hold the two jobs. Skier stated the job of sheriff and police chief were incompatible.

He remarked because the sheriff was both the arresting officer and jailer, it would "appear to be a violation of the rights of those arrested by the Sheriff's Department."

Wayne County Commissioners Frederick Holbert and Raymond Schweighofer stated it was "none of our business," and "it will be up to the courts to decide."

Kalinowski was told by Wayne County Judge James Rutherford to continue patrolling Dreher.

Residents and officials of Dreher praised the work done by Kalinowski and his deputies. With the crime rate and vandalism in the township on the increase, having the Sheriff's Department patrol the area has reduced both considerably, they said.

In order to evade any further dispute and to have police protection to continue and violators cited and citations processed, the Pocono Highlands Police District was formed this month and all deputies sworn in under the new political subdivision.

In a letter to Dreher Supervisors from Wayne County District Attorney Robert Conway, Conway stated he was unaware of the new police district.

In order to alert Conway, Rutherford and District Magistrate Allen Campfield, supervisors will send a letter to each stating the official formation of the Pocono Highlands Police District.

Supervisors will also go to Honesdale and talk to Judge Rutherford about the matter.

Kalinowski this week told Dreher officials he had sent a letter to the county commissioners in which he asked the Pocono Highlands Police District to be expanded to cover Wayne County.

Kalinowski in his letter, stated the sheriff's arresting powers have been curtailed by state law. He also noted an increase in crime in the county in the last several years. Copies of letters from Wayne County residents who reported burglaries, vandalism and other incidents accompanied the sheriff's letter.

The letter was received by the commissioners Monday and Kalinowski is awaiting a reply.

Unplanned development stymies Hamilton board

West End Bureau
SCIOGA — The Hamilton Township Planning Commission was unable to hold an official meeting Monday night because only three of its four members were able to attend the regular session.

On Saturday the commission was increased officially to seven members. Since there are now only four planners on the board, all of the members would have had to be present in order to have a quorum for an official vote.

The planners did, however, meet informally. They discussed their proposed budget for the coming year and accepted several plot plans.

Basically the planners agreed to ask for a 1975 budget of approximately $2,500 to cover secretarial and postage costs and a $150-per-month engineering consultant fee. This is less than half the $5,000 budgeted for the commission last year.

A plot plan was accepted for review which would transfer one two-acre lot from Minnie and Arvilla Peters to Norbert Romesberger and a 2.5 acre lot from the Peters' to John Stradlmayer.

A minor subdivision of a 2.8 acre tract to be conveyed from Bessie Heller to Forrest Heller was also submitted for approval.

Another section of Lakeview Terrace, the land developed by Frederick W. Faulstich at Saylors Lake, was submitted for review. The 15 lot plan contains 50-foot wide roads that run into the 33-foot wide roads that were recorded for the former section of the development.

This matter and the question of whether or not a central water supply will be available from National Utilities, Inc. must be studied.

It was agreed that the plan would have to be forwarded to the commission's engineers for review.

Higher hospital costs spell Blue Cross loss

STROUDSBURG — Losses of Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania may total $1 million this year, according to Ralph S. Smith, plan president.

Smith told area Blue Cross Advisory Board members Monday operational losses for the first nine months of 1974 totaled nearly $800,000 and could reach the $1 million mark before the end of the year.

A decrease of length of the average subscriber's hospital stay by one-half day and increased subscriber rates that went into effect on July 1 did not prevent the operational losses.

Smith said hospital costs per day have increased 16 per cent over a year ago since wage and price controls were lifted in April.

Payments made to hospitals in Northeastern Pennsylvania during October averaged $104.50 per day, while payments to out-of-the-area hospitals during the month averaged $120.45.

Blue Cross has recently installed a centralized subscriber service department and a teleprocessing system for automated verification of coverage for outpatient department claims from three Blue Cross member hospitals to improve service, Smith said.

Teacher confab

EMMAUS — Two teachers from the East Stroudsburg Area School District attended the Eighth Annual Conference of the Keystone State Reading Association from Nov. 13 to Nov. 16 at the Host Farm Resort in Emmaus. Nancy Atker and Beryl Godshall attended the conference entitled, "Humanism in Reading — Promises and Practices."

Smith said federal legislation proposed for a national health insurance plan could build on existing medical care systems, including Blue Cross, Blue Shield and insurance company plans. He said many of the bill's backers support this possibility.

Donald Z. Wade, of Matamoras, was reelected to serve as chairman of the Monroe-Pike Counties Advisory Board during 1975.

Fourth estate really works

On Monday, The Record printed a rather lengthy excerpt from a speech by Potter Stewart, an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, in which he defended and explained the constitutional guarantee of a free press.

He perceptively noted that, while many court tests have been tried over the years on the constitutional guarantee of free speech, none were tried on the press question . . . not until the press in recent years began to act in a vigorous adversary and investigatory role. In other words, while the nation's press assumed the role of a neutral conduit of government information and propaganda, it was left alone. When it began to question government, government began to get uneasy and fight back.

So far, the press has won. Constitutionally, it seems, the founding fathers wisely created a system in which three co-equal branches of government were guaranteed to create a friction that would result in an effective barrier against autocracy — "checks and balances" we read about in high school civics books. But they also created another check — the so-called "fourth estate" or the press.

The system has worked remarkably well. Despite attacks (many people still accuse the press of having hounded Spiro Agnew and Richard Nixon from office) the press is still vigorous in pursuit of truth. There will be abuses, but if the public is alert and responsive, those abuses will be minimized. The benefits outweigh the risks.

A couple of examples: The Wall Street Journal recently ran a series of articles charging that federal regulatory agencies were costing the consumer money, when in fact they were set up to protect the consumer. Because of those revelations, the government is now going to review the regulatory agencies and try to rectify that situation — an action not initiated by Congress, but by the publicity given by the press.

Right here in Monroe County, publicity given an alleged situation at the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation county shed has resulted in a legislative investigation and recommendations for criminal action — again, an action initiated by the press, not the government.

The resolution of the Vietnam war was hastened by a critical press (belatedly goaded on by the anti-war movement) and the Watergate case — well it was only through continued publicity that investigations brought to light abuses that far outweigh any abuses the press might have created.

Freedom of the press is freedom of the people to know what their government is up to. It is one worth protecting, for it truly protects us all.

Santa salesman?

'Tis the season to be jolly . . . already?
'Tis true, and we're not alone in marveling at the way the so-called "Christmas season" creeps up on us year after year.

Thanksgiving is not yet here, and we are being treated to the strains of Christmas carols in department stores, to cascades of tinsel, to beaming, roguish caricatures of Santa Claus and to bright lights inside and outside (whatever happened to the energy crisis?)

It's worse than that, for as we write this, those Christmas trappings have been up for a couple of weeks already.

One of the reasons for the early break in seasonal change is the lateness of Thanksgiving. With one less week to go, retailers have moved things up so they don't lose out on sales. Another reason is the slowdown in the economy. The rationale is that, no matter how tight the pinch, people always buy for Christmas, and many retailers are counting on this season to bail them out of a disastrous year.

It all makes economic sense. It also dilutes somehow the ration of Christmas spirit. An overlay of tinsel may be bright, but it's superficial. Disappointment isn't far underneath. If there ever was any doubt that Christmas is primarily a monetary season, there isn't much now.

There's something else . . . Oh, yes: Merry Christmas. (We don't want to be left out of the rush, after all.)

A personal note

As a part of this column's world wide job-finding service I recently spent an hour with a bright young man outlining procedures of how to get a job on the newspaper. He now has a job on the White Plains (N. Y.) paper which he got entirely on his own and by paying no mind to my outline.

An heirloom?

I spotted a classified ad in an area newspaper the other day that said, "Lost — Sum of Money, Sentimental Value."

Human side of deepening economic distress poignant

WASHINGTON — Behind the dull statistics, which measure our deepening economic distress, is a poignant human drama. We have conducted our own economic survey to get the human side of the story.

We have sent reporters into the nation's most fashionable neighborhoods and its most scrubby ghettos. We have spoken to the gentle folks on Sen. James Eastland's plantation in Sunflower County, Miss. And we have talked to their impoverished neighbors, who sit on creaking porches with dull eyes and gnawing hunger pains. We have made spot checks on economic conditions across America.

Everywhere, people are complaining about hard times. New York brokers, despairing over the stock market slump are pulling out of their houses and heading South. They hope to find better financial opportunities in Atlanta and Houston.

Ghetto blacks, reversing the previous flow, are also drifting southward. Their families had tended the fields in the Deep South since slave days. Then, suddenly, they were made obsolete by tractors and automatic cotton-pickers. Many of them moved northward to fill up the ghettos of the big cities. They now find life in the ghettos so bleak, so bitter, that those who can scrape up the bus fare are heading back home.

Probably the worst off are the migrant farm laborers, the thousands of faceless men and women and their anonymous children who move with the harvest, stopping only long enough to pick a crop and to earn enough to subsist until the next stop.

The average stoop laborer, according to United Farm Workers official Gobert Padilla, earns a meager $3,000 a year. For these wandering workers, who move from crop to crop in beat-up trucks, the gasoline price rise has been a disaster.

Starchy diet

Even more serious has been the increase in the price of beans from 18 to 60 cents a pound. Many migrant workers, who help make America the best fed nation in history, are themselves undernourished. Some are too poor to afford even the government stamps to buy cut-price food, and they exist on a diet of starches and water.

Some have settled in California's Sunkist country, where life is a bit better. They live in grower-owned mobile trailers and wooden houses on the edges of the groves.

Fed's money policies inflation key not home gardens

Nicholas Von Hoffman

However, the one place where administering the pledge might do some good is at the Federal Reserve Board. The Board is where they grind out all that worthless money; and while there is no known correlation between the price level and Porter's homegrown turnips, there is a high one between the Fed's money printing and inflation.

Experience shows that the upper limit for pumping new money into our system, without getting an ugly inflationary leap at the supermarket checkout counter, is about 6 per cent a year. From January 1972 to July 1973 the Fed was pushing money out at the rate of nearly 9 per cent, which is 50 per cent faster than the outer edge of safety. Even this year the growth rate was 7 per cent-plus, until the Fed abruptly cut it off in July.

That drastic midsummer shutdown — far too rapid for our strained and overextended economy — has only exacerbated matters by dampening down business activity and helping to cause unemployment, while the Fed's prior inflationary policies continue to eat away at pensions and paychecks alike. Now it appears that the Fed has reversed itself yet again and is attempting a major refutation.

Why all this wild jumping around? "Overreaction to short-run fluctuations," says Darryl Francis, the president of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank. In the closed, no-comment world of the Fed, Francis is looked on as something of a dissident, independent thinker; but on the outside many persons agree with him and go further to say that the Fed's policies are impractical, contradictory and dangerous.

The Fed's goals are laudable enough: to keep employment up, interest rates down, business up, inflation down and prices flat. The operative assumption for doing all this is that easy money produces jobs and low-interest rates. It has never quite worked out that smoothly, hence the higgles and jiggles in the money supply.

Of late, though, the numbers sustaining these ideas have been behaving very badly. The Fed is having to print more and more money for fewer jobs and more inflation. "The trade-offs between unemployment and inflation de-however, measure their government handouts in tens and twenties, not hundreds of thousands. They are the sharecroppers and the farm hands, who eke out a living running the machinery in the cotton fields. The most they can earn, when they can find work, is $2 an hour. "I haven't heard of none that are getting higher," one of the senator's less-blessed neighbors told us.

Still malnutrition.

Doctors at Mt. Bayou hospital, not far from Eastland's plantation, told us that despite the federal food stamp program, they still treat "a lot of cases of malnutrition."

"Every day," said one doctor, "I see people who have no health insurance and no Medicaid. And they have no food, either."

Not even the sugar growers, whose prices for raw sugar have shot up from 4.5 cents a pound three years ago to 67.2 cents a pound today, are happy.

George Wedgworth, head of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative, representing about 150 farms between the southern edge of Lake Okeechobee and the Everglades in southern Florida, grumbled about government controls. "Consumers are going to have to pay more," he said.

Some 8,000 workers have been imported from the West Indies for the back-breaking harvest, which is just beginning. American agricultural workers won't hack down the sugar cane with heavy machetes for the minimum $2.45 an hour. "You and I probably wouldn't last a day," Wedgworth said. "But those accustomed to it prefer being here to working in the West Indies."

In sum, the economic downturn isn't merely a question of dollars. It is an issue of human misery.

Reporter's Notebook

Milford's 209 concern

By BRUCE POSTEN
Pocono Record Reporter

While Monroe County residents are shooting red flares in a Boston Tea Party-type protest over Rte. 209, citizens of Pike County — residents of Milford, Dingmans Ferry and Bushkill in particular — are also considerably distressed with the highway.

Milford residents, for instance, longing for the peaceful and quiet days of their borough, view today's Milford as the only "76 Truck Stop" northeast of Bartonsville, with hefty 18-wheelers rumbling through the town shaking everyone up.

Trucks parked at intersections obstructing visibility for drivers entering those areas, noise pollution bothering most people who live on Milford's main thoroughfare, and accidents at the infamous "crash corner" are often the topics of discussion at borough council meetings.

People are frustrated and have attempted to bring publicity to their problem through the actions of their mayor and county commissioners.

Although municipal and Pike County officials have expended a lot of energy, their success has been minimal.

Mrs. Marjorie Hoey, a resident of "crash corner" on Rte. 209, has had her chain-link fence knocked down eight times in the past year and half by truck and car traffic.

"It's pretty frightening living here when you think about it. When one truck went through the fence (the fence poles are placed in cement), I thought for sure it would land in the house. Fortunately, the trees in the front yard stopped it," Mrs. Hoey said.

Other residents on the corner have had similar problems, forcing one homeowner to even consider putting her house up for sale.

The agreement reached between Pike County Commissioners and the Cooper-Jarrett truck firm to have Jarrett's trucks bypass Milford and Rte. 209 by using an alternate route hasn't gotten any takers from other firms yet.

Milford Mayor Russell Roberts, who has consistently opposed the truck traffic on Rte. 209, reports that he still sees a few Cooper-Jarrett trucks running through the borough. He expects that during the winter with icy conditions on Rte. 84 more trucks might be taking the old Rte. 209.

Mayor Roberts, a man with a feeling for publicity and how it sometimes solves issues when normal channels fail, arranged for a Wilkes-Barre television station to film truck traffic through the borough. The film crews were there for a day and left. The trucks remained, Roberts said.

The mayor also wrote a lengthy letter to WABC television, New York, in the hope to get more publicity on Rte. 209. No word from WABC yet.

One Pike County resident, who wished to remain anonymous, reads the news in Monroe County and commended the speed and effectiveness of local officials in raiding an adult bookstore in Stroud Township.

"I know Rte. 209 is a bigger and more complicated problem, but if only officialdom could act as decisively on this issue before more people are hurt," he said.

"I don't know, if someone opened an adult bookstore smack in the middle of Rte. 209, I'm sure they'd close the road then."

The operative assumption for doing all this is that easy money produces jobs and low-interest rates. It has never quite worked out that smoothly, hence the higgles and jiggles in the money supply.

Of late, though, the numbers sustaining these ideas have been behaving very badly. The Fed is having to print more and more money for fewer jobs and more inflation. "The trade-offs between unemployment and inflation decline with experiences of erratic inflationary policies interspersed with unreliable phases of anti-inflationary reversals," says the University of Rochester's Karl Brunner, an economist who doesn't get his data from the squash and zucchini.

The Fed's ability to create jobs, control interest rates or meet any of its goals diminishes as the mischief it causes grows. One of the reasons is that businessmen are getting hip to the damage the Fed can do in its fumbling, inflationary inactivity and are taking steps to protect themselves. So, when the Fed wants business marching one way, the shrewdies move in the opposite direction for survival's sake.

Nevertheless, the power of the Fed to bounce us violently up and down the graphs is still only understood by a minuscule part of the population. They know that the Fed has the machinery to make it nearly impossible for the rest of the government to run up the horrendous deficits everybody's shrieking about. They know its central position, as Sylvia Porter would if she'd kindly come out from behind the cabbage.

Movies reflect public's concern with crime growth

WASHINGTON — The Gallup Poll is not the only way to measure public concern. Another good way is to examine the motion picture pool.

What films are audiences seeing in increasing numbers? The answer is: crime, crime and more crime. These days there are all kinds of movies about crime — good and bad, foolish and frivolous, dull and boisterous, criminals preying on citizens, cops preying on criminals and with the audiences often cheering on the police.

You may have seen one or more of them: "Death Wish," "Law and Disorder," "The Taking of Pelham One Two Three," "The Super Cops" and so forth.

Crime is increasing. Movies about crime in theaters and on TV are increasing. In the movie theaters today Americans are witnessing not only "entertainment," they are witnessing reality. And they are reflecting mounting public anxiety that nothing equal to the need is being done to arrest the constant increase of serious crime in our midst.

Most needs

What most needs to be done? I give you the considered answers of one who speaks from experience, the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Clarence M. Kelley. I can assure you that he is not one who wants to diminish constitutionally protected rights and due process under the law for the accused. His views deserve the responsive attention of every citizen who wants to see crime go down, not up.

QUESTION — What is the core of the problem; what is contributing substantially to the growth of crime?

DIRECTOR KELLEY — There is convining evidence that as many as two-thirds of all offenses are committed by persons who have been arrested for and convicted of crimes previously.

QUESTION — What permits them to be so treated?

DIRECTOR KELLEY — Under current bail procedures, these experienced and often hardened criminals are frequently given the same consideration as first-time offenders. This means that a high-risk offender can be bonded and released a number of times while awaiting trial. Many of these offenders commit additional crimes. Criminal repeaters, charged with crimes of violence, are frequently permitted bail as quickly as youthful and novice offenders accused of petty larceny.

QUESTION — What other changes need to be made?

DIRECTOR KELLEY — There is a widespread tendency (by the courts) to pronounce concurrent sentences on offenders convicted of multiple crimes — two, three or more crimes for the price of one.

This tells us where citizen action needs to be directed.

Stories Behind Words

By William Penfield

Derrick

In the early part of the 17th Century there was a famous London hangman who conducted many executions at Tyburn, the place where public hangings were held.

The hangman, Godfrey Derrick, modified the tripod gallows in use at that time by lengthening one of the three legs, extending it beyond the point where the other two legs met at the top. A rope was suspended from the end of the extended leg so that those to be executed could be hoisted and hanged. This type gallows was called a "derrick," from the name of the man who invented and used it.

When a similar device was used to hoist goods from the holds of ships, the name "derrick" was transferred to it.

Charges urged for officials in Mercer PennDOT shed

By JOHN L. MOORE
Harrisburg — Three state highway officials assigned to Mercer County should be prosecuted on charges of "commonlaw extortion, blackmail, violation of the anti-trading statute and malfeasance in office," recommends a report being prepared by the state Legislative Committee on Contract Practices.

The officials, all assistant superintendents at the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation Maintenance Center at Mercer, are Jack Bestwick of Mercer, Anthony Monteson of Farrell, and Herbert Vanderslice of Greenville.

Being drafted by staff of the committee's Republican majority, the report is based on allegations that the officials, all Democrats, required private contractors to make cash kickbacks in order to secure work from PennDOT. The allegations were raised publicly in September by a number of contractors testifying during the committee's hearings on PennDOT operations in Mercer County.

The draft report also recommends that Bestwick, because of the nature of his testimony before the committee, "be indicted for perjury."

The draft also concludes that Vanderslice "chose to manufacture" a poor memory in order to avoid answering questions while testifying before the committee.

It also states that Monteson admitted collecting money from the contractors which represented fixed percentages of their PennDOT earnings.

Expected to be submitted to the committee for approval within the next few weeks, the draft report expresses "doubt" that the contractors' payments, although ostensibly political contributions, ever arrived "in the coffers of the Mercer County Democratic Committee."

"This doubt is based on several factors," according to the draft. "The lessors were required to make the payments in cash. Receipts were never given. And a review of the contribution records of the Mercer County Democratic Committee reveals virtually no notation of any contributions received from numerous lessors who have testified to their percentage payments."

Created by the House of Representatives in 1973, the committee cannot prosecute anyone, but the report urges the committee to forward its Mercer County files to several law enforcement agencies.

These include the U.S. Attorney's Office in Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania Department of Justice, the Pennsylvania Crime Commission, and the district attorneys of Dauphin and Mercer Counties.

The U.S. Attorney's Office and the state Justice Department are already investigating the contractor allegations.

The contractors who leveled allegations against one or more of the PennDOT officials during the hearings were Robert Douf of Sharon, George Hazen of Clark Mills, Philip Hoobler of Shenkleyville, Richard Johnson of Hadley, Donald Lark of West Middlesex, John McDowell of Mercer and Thomas Rollinson of Sharon.

The recommendation that Bestwick be prosecuted for perjury came after the draft report noted the official related most of the allegations against him and denied ever discussing contributions or contracts with McDowell or Hoobler and said he never asked Hazen for "10 per cent of Hazen's earnings from the state."

The report also noted that Vanderslice avoided answering eight questions about his fund raising activities among PennDOT contractors on the grounds he "could not remember."

But the draft concludes "it is inconceivable... that Mr. Vanderslice could have such a total lapse of memory. It is abundantly obvious that Vanderslice chose to manufacture an obviously faulty memory as an alternative to either invoking the fifth amendment or committing perjury."

The draft also noted that Monteson admitted collecting from several contractors and said he took the money in the "belief that the money was to go to the Mercer County Democratic Party but he does not know for a fact that the money went there."

"Monteson admitted that he did not feel that accepting percentage contributions from lessors was right."

Rainmaker's job done too well

CARO, Mich. (UPI) — The rainmaker was so successful, farmer Michael Reinbold said, that five inches of rain and hail came crashing down on a clear day.

The storm, Reinbold said, ruined his corn, bean and beet crops and cost him $37,500.

And that is why Reinbold said he is suing Dr. Irving P. Krick of Palm Springs, Calif., a professional rainmaker who once served as chief of the U.S. Army Air Force's weather forecasting office.

"We're saying you shouldn't mess around with the environment unless you know what consequences your messing around can cause," said Reinbold, a 30-year-old farmer who owns 800 acres of farmland in this rich area north of Detroit.

The case is currently under way in Tuscola County circuit court.

On July 11, 1972, the day of the storm, Reinbold said, Krick was employed by a group of farmers 150 miles away at Holland, who were reported to have paid $60,000 with silver iodide.

"Neither me, nor my 64-year-old father or his father had ever seen anything like that storm before," Reinbold said.

"It was just this little black cloud that came straight at us, with sun shining all around."

When it passed two hours later, Reinbold said, his crops were destroyed by five inches of rain and hail the size of golf balls.

Krick's lawyers contend the rainmaking operation had nothing to do with the Tuscola County storm.

Two senators sound Soviet arms warning

LONDON (UPI) — Two American senators have told President Ford that Moscow is violating the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation agreement and Congress has been "seriously misled" about U.S. strategic strength, one of the lawmakers said Tuesday.

Sen. James L. Buckley, C-N.Y., said he and Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr., I-Va., delivered the warning Nov. 6 in a joint letter to Ford who is to meet in Vladivostok next weekend with Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev.

"This was of the utmost importance as we approach the Vladivostok summit," Buckley told a news conference after visits to the Soviet Union, Poland and West Germany. Buckley said he released the letter with Byrd's approval.

It charged the Soviets are violating the 1972 SALT agreement and that "Congress appears to have been seriously misled as to the state of our strategic strength, present and prospective, vis-a-vis the Soviet Union."

It also spoke of "serious questions as to Soviet intentions."

The letter urged Ford to "instruct our SALT II negotiators to inform their Soviet counterparts that we will settle for nothing less than parity in our strategic forces, based on the concept of true parity in throw-weight and delivery systems as mandated by Congress."

It asked the President "to inform the Congress in detail about the nature of the U.S.-Soviet strategic balance, including the extent (if any) of Soviet violations of existing agreements."

There will be no hunting or snowmobile riding this year on Muller's Stock Farm, Stroudsburg R.D. 2, Pa. Anyone caught will be prosecuted to the fullest extent. LUCAS & JOHN MULLER

Nuclear power plant easy to seize

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A small group of armed men—as few as two or three—could seize a nuclear power plant and release radioactive materials into the neighboring area, a government report warned Tuesday.

The General Accounting Office said the take-over of a power plant would pose a threat to public safety, especially if it occurred in a metropolitan area.

In a letter to Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, the GAO said that "the consensus of opinion is that security throughout the industry needs to be improved."

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who released the letter, said, "These GAO findings contain the latest disturbing indications that inadequate safeguards against theft and sabotage may yet be the Achilles heel of the nuclear power industry."

Temperance union still fighting

WCTU — never say die

By LORA SHARPE
Family Fare Editor

STROUDSBURG — The Woman's Christian Temperance Union's (WCTU) fight against the evils of drink may be good to the last drop.

Forty years after the repeal of prohibition, the WCTU is still speaking out in the United States and throughout the world against the use and abuse of alcohol.

In fact, the organization, boasting some 250,000 members in the U.S., is celebrating its centennial this year.

But the WCTU, a leader in the fight for prohibition, has not the strength it once did.

In Monroe County, some 50 women cling to the WCTU white ribbon of abstinence. The local union recalls its stronger days with nostalgia.

"We used to have speakers and institutes and the churches would be full," said Mrs. Dale H. Learn, a member of the WCTU since the 1920's. "Today everybody'd be shocked to death if we did something like that."

Until five years ago, the local WCTU was large enough to be a countywide organization with local clubs under it.

Now, the local WCTU is one consolidated organization — with fewer than half the members it had in its heyday.

Oldtimers from the prohibition era can remember the WCTU and supporters marching through the streets of Stroudsburg to urge prohibition. And they tell of the congregation of the Coolbaugh church (now Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church) singing a rousing version of "Salonless Nation in 1920."

"Today, the local WCTU concentrates on education efforts in the schools — efforts, members say, that are sometimes rejected.

The union also provides the flowers in Courthouse Square, Stroudsburg, and runs an annual essay contest for junior high school students.

The union, locally and nationally, also includes narcotic and drug information in its educational campaign in a move to keep up with the times.

But the crusade is getting more difficult as the years go on.

"Young people see their parents drink more these days," said local WCTU president Mrs. B.H. Hostetter. "So it's almost a lost cause."

Mrs. Hostetter herself has never touched alcohol. Nor have her children, she said. And the generations before her always abstained from liquor.

"Some people may think we're well, queer," smiled Mrs. Hostetter. "But when your children have turned out well and made names for themselves, what can they say?"

Mrs. Hostetter mourns the decline of WCTU activity on younger levels. In past decades, the local union ran a Loyal Temperance Legion for youngsters. This group, though, has long since gone by the wayside.

The essay contest competition is even dwindling, according to Mrs. Learn. This year, only eighth grade teachers in East Stroudsburg's schools showed any interest.

The local WCTU itself may vanish virtually through attrition in the not too far away future.

Few younger women are joining the Crusade founded by a young Frances E. Willard in Ohio 100 years ago.

And the women in the local (and national) union are growing older. The crusade may die with its crusaders.

ESSC fe(a)st has Puerto Rican aura

By BOBBY WESTBROOK

EAST STROUDSBURG — While no Nielsen ratings were available, the crowd which turned out for the third International Night dinner at the college on Monday night showed no appreciable effect from the televised showing of the second half of "The Godfather."

It was Puerto Rican night, and the number of students, faculty and local townspeople was swelled by large groups from the Allentown-Bethlehem area.

They had all come to hear the dinner music of Ralph Lopez trio of guitar and maracas and the talk by Dr. Milton Silva on "Puerto Rico: A Case Study in Intercultural Relations."

Dr. Silva, born in Puerto Rico and now on leave of absence as professor of psychiatry at Rutgers University, is assistant director of National Institute of Education, Washington, D.C. Among his many consultant ships, he serves the Department of Public Instruction of Puerto Rico. He holds Ph.D.'s from the University of Oklahoma and the University of Madrid.

Whether Puerto Rico was "discovered" or "invaded" by Columbus on his second voyage in 1493 depends on the point of view, Silva said in his summary of the history of the 100 by 35 mile island in the Greater Antilles Islands off the American shore.

Indians

It was at that time inhabited by Indians. Because no women came with the early explorers (The first European Women to come to the area were the ladies in waiting to Columbus' son's wife when he was named viceroy of Santa Domingo) there was an intermarriage with the Indians, he pointed out.

The Indian population quickly died out through lack of immunity to European diseases, mistreatment, and moves to the mainland. Slaves were imported as field hands, he said, pointing to later immigration of French Huguenots from Louisiana, from the Dutch, British and Spanish Islands.

"Puerto Rico is a true laboratory of intercultural relations," he said.

It became an American possession in 1898 following the Spanish American War and political unrest in the island resulted from debates on whether the inhabitants wanted to remain a possession of Spain, have independence or become an overseas province of Spain.

The land in the island had early been divided as grants to a few families, and its natural resources were agricultural with sugar, coffee and tobacco as its chief crops, he said, with waves of migration, often of epidemic proportions, resulting.

After 1898 it was first governed by a military governor appointed by the President. The first changes in the relationship of the island with the United States began with Franklin Roosevelt and speeded up by the industrial development sponsored by Munoz Marin, who is still a figure of controversy there, Silva pointed out.

Migration

"Operation Bootstrap caused migration of agrarian natives who were unprepared for industrialization, and the simultaneous move of American field hands to the cities made the Puerto Rican laborers welcome in the Eastern seaboard," he said.

One major difference between Puerto Ricans and other migrants is that the Puerto Ricans can and do go home with low air fare and frequent flights making the interflow easy.

"They have never really settled what their relationships should be with the United States," Silva said, pointing out that they are now citizens of the U.S. and Puerto Rico has commonwealth status.

"There are groups which favor the status quo, groups who seek statehood similar to Alaska, and a small but vocal group, appealing particularly to the young, who want independence.

"These differences result in internal strife and external unrest among Puerto Ricans in this country," he concluded.

His brief talk inspired an unusual number of questions from the audience.

Music and dance

The music of the Lopez trio, who appear each Saturday on television channel 39, also inspired general dancing led by the Puerto Rican dance team of students.

"There is no native Puerto Rican dance," Mrs. Mary Jane Wolbers, who had arranged the dances, explained as the three girls and three boys of Puerto Rican background went through a walking dance, a holiday dance, and modern dancing in blue jeans.

Dr. Kurt Winer, who arranges these international nights, suggested that study groups to prepare those interested in more in depth preparation for International Nights may be organized through the Institute of International Studies and the program of continuing education at the college for townspeople who may be interested.

The dinner featured garlic soup, Arroz Con Pollo, red beans with sofrito, candied sweet potatoes and a tropical salad topped off by coconut custard in tart shells.

Men now outnumber women

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The number of men in the world has increased so fast that they now outnumber women by 10 million and the United Nations reports the trend should last through the rest of the century.

According to a U.N. report on the role of women, there were 1.165 billion women and 1.137 billion men in the world in 1965.

But now, it said, the situation has been reversed with 1.998 billion men and 1.988 billion women making up the total population of 3.986 billion.

"This trend is expected to continue to the end of the century with the increase of men over women growing slightly," the report said.

The report said, however, that worldwide women accounted for only 34 per cent, or 515 million, in the work force.

By the end of this decade, it said, the figure should be 600 million and rise to 842 million by the year 2000.

Wide differences were reported in the number of women in the labor forces in different countries.

The highest percentages listed were in the Soviet Union and Rumania, where it was 50 per cent. The other Eastern European nations were next with more than 40 per cent.

Western Europe and North America have between 30 and 40 per cent of the work force made up of women.

The report said the lowest rates were in the Moslem countries, where women traditionally have been subservient to men. A sampling included: Algeria 1.8 per cent, Libya 2.7 per cent, Tunisia 3 per cent.

Despite the increasing number of women in the work force, particularly in professional and technical jobs, the report said women are still the lowest paid.

The report cited studies showing that in many industrialized countries women's wages are about 50 to 80 per cent of men's for the same work time.

All-woman radio system

Feminists found network

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two years ago a Washington college-owned FM radio station beamed up its public affairs program in a new "woman talk" in order to meet Federal Communications Commission requirements and get back on the air.

What started then as two young women interviewing such guests as feminist Gloria Steinem and militant poet-author Rita Mae Brown Monday became the Feminist Radio Network.

The unlikely combination of a docket clerk, graphic artist, social worker and two house painters evolved from talk show moderators to tape producers to a distributing company attempting to build a national feminist media and audience.

Juanita Weaver, 30, who works for the National Association of Social Workers, was the originator. She was asked by a friend to moderate a women's show that would bail Georgetown University's WGTB out of its programming troubles with the FCC.

She was joined on a show called Radio Free Women by Laura Bertram, 23, an active member of the campus women's political caucus. The two were followed by Lark Prokulek, also 23, and by house painters Shirl Smith and Chris Murphy who heard of the show when a co-worker at the Rape Crisis Center appeared as a guest.

From then on, Ms. Bertram said in an interview, "the quality of the shows increased — we became more organized and held weekly meetings."

Ms. Weaver said there was talk of national syndication from the start but it was "hard to take it seriously because it was such a potentially powerful thing."

Ms. Smith admitted that she had a women's radio station in mind for a long time but "knew we had to have the engineering and technical knowledge."

All agreed that the first milestones came when they began editing their first own tape, and when they transformed "Sofie's Parlor" to an all-women's music show which is still aired twice weekly.

As the music show prospered, the women began learning needed technical skills — enough to hand down "Sofie's" to women they had trained themselves.

They conducted workshops in the studios because, Ms. Smith said, "it's easier for women to learn from other women ... It's not in their (men's) interest to let everyone know how easy it is."

The network idea evolved with experience. In May of this year, Ms. Smith said the group "decided that staying at WGTB was worn out and we were tired of not being paid for our jobs." Their work, up to then, had been on a strictly volunteer basis.

Ms. Smith's articles in a feminist media publication about the distribution idea followed; then the videotaping of local and prominent feminists.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Bdw. was no wasteland last weekend: crowds bigger than we've ever seen 'em ... But beware pick-pockets at theater intermissions ... Bdw. opening Dec. 10 of Rex Harrison in Terence Rattigan's "In Praise of Love" drummed up the biggest advance in the Morosco Theater's history; credit Rex and widely exultant outtown reviews ... Rex's pals who can't wangle seats for his glamor-opening-of-the-year were shuttling to Washington to exercise frustration with me-first snobbery. Peter Ustinov's imminent comedy took reluctant raps on the tryout road.

Youngest "Juliet" since Shakespeare's, Olivia Hussey, and Dean Martin Jr. split. Desi Arnaz Jr. is consoling her ... 20th-Fox has more than $500,000 in the black musical "Wiz" (rock version of The Wizard of Oz) and is worried ...

You don't have to be Jewish: Steve McQueen is about as Jewish as Paddy's porker but made his pro stage debut in a 2nd Ave. Jewish play at $40 a week. His "Towering Inferno" take home came to $40,000 a week ... Jack Nicholson's new love is John Huston's daughter, Angelica. In Jack's latest film, the same John's dialogic menace goes thus: "Are you sleeping with my daughter?" ... "Towering Inferno" producer Irwin Allen and Sheila Matthews have an even more towering inferno: they'll wed any alarm.

David Carradine's house-breaking & assault rap swings an even more tragic tale ... "The Odessa File" started out so-so, switched ads and business roomed ... "The Longest Yard" pioneered that psychology — switched ads to Burl Reynolds' groin-pix and zowie! ... The file at Seafare of the Aegean caught "Six Million Dollar Man" Lee Majors' sole attn'n ... George Peppard quit acting to produce, direct and write his own million-dollar flick. Everything fine except — he can't raise the million.

Time-Life is working on two new mags: photography, and medicine ... Billboard (eight) publications exec was overheard at a dinner party saying his outfit had its finest year ... There's an "academy" for everything: now it's the Academy of Ballroom Arts; its awards are due Dec. 3, quite properly at Roseland ... What are they nicknamed? "Freds" for Astaire?

Octogenarian toe-tapping bandleader Meyer Davis played the White House diplomatic ball and got this note from Pres. Jerry Ford: "A glance at the dance floor would seem to bear out the old adage that music is a universal language, particularly when it is played in the inimitable Meyer Davis manner!" ... Veteran nocturnal chatter jockey Long John Nebel is fighting the miseries again ... Austin Mack, Joe E. Lewis' pianist for 40 saloon years, just played Happy 80th Birthday to himself: Austin wrote most of the music to Joe's naughty songs and was paid 10 per cent of Joe's salary — and held onto most of it for these rocking chair years. Congrats!

Tragic thrift: Swiss banks have unclaimed millions deposited by Nazi victims; the Swiss propose to give two-thirds to the Swiss Federation of Jewish Charities, the rest to the Red Cross ... The French love lovers: the famed Left Bank was tapped by the late

Pres. Pompidou to become a Seize side auto route but new Pres. Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's returning it to the smoochers ... National Enquirer did a spy-follow of Elvis Presley and reports, at 39, the erstwhile Pelvic Oracle is "pamchy, depressed — and living in fear," never leaves his own hotel room whose phones are disconnected on tour, and an Indianapolis Hilton Hotel manager was astonished at the security measures: "There was tougher security for Elvis than for the President," he marveled; the fear is kidnapping and even his meals are tasted by aides in the hotel kitchen ... "The Carey Treatment" is a Dec. 6 ABC-TV movie — but nothing to do with the election of Hugh Carey as N.Y. gov ... New French flick, "Icy Breasts," strikes photog George Kalinsky as ideal for Brigitte Bardot playing a toptess Eskimo ... You could've knocked over Marilyn King of TV's King Family with a paradedle when she sat down front at the Tony Bennett-Lena Horne musicale at the Uris Theater (best music show on Bdw.); the drummer is Chuck Hughes, the best man at Marilyn's wedding.

Sammy Davis buys expensive cars faster than you buy bikes: his latest to join his Rolls and Stutz, etc., is a $35,000 Titan-Barris sports heap; he'll leave it home in H'wood to jet here for his Nov. 12 gig at Nanuet theater-go-round.

The late "Bonanza" mountain Dan Blocker's son Dirk, 16, is a chip off the old turn, making fine progress.

FORBIDDEN: (Q.) Last summer Gary and I went steady. But my mom doesn't like him and told me not to go out with him anymore.

But a week ago we went out secretly and had a real nice time. Do you think this is wrong? We love each other. He is 18 and I am 17.

Feeling Guilty in Florida

(A.) Your mother must have some reason for disliking Gary. If it is simply a personal dislike and he is otherwise a decent boy, she is being unfair to you. But if there is something Gary is doing that she disapproves of, you might be able to work out an agreement between the two of them.

Talk to her about WHY she dislikes him and try to get them together to discuss their differences, whatever they are. This may help, and it will let her know that you are seeing each other again.

PERSONAL: (Q.) If someone had a personal problem and wrote to you about it and asked you if you wouldn't put it in your column, would you honor their request? —

Wondering in Pennsylvania

(A.) All the letters I get from Teen Forum readers are about personal problems. Very few who write want their names or addresses printed or to be identified in some other way. I honor this wish faithfully.

I never print a writer's name or street address or town or city name unless the writer clearly indicates that he wants me to.

If the writer uses his own name or the names of others, these names are either not used or they are changed so that they won't be identifiable. If a letter has a detail that would in any way identify a specific person or persons, the detail is cut out.

So no one need ever fear that he or she will be exposed or embarrassed by writing to me — no matter how personal the problem.

And, although I can't send personal answers, I am personally interested and concerned with every teenager who writes to me.

Rangers perform rescues

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Rangers at the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area have done more in the last three weeks than tend the forest. They aided two persons seriously injured near the park land.

A farmer, cultivating a cornfield, got his arm caught in a silage cutter. His wife, after appealing for help from two hunters, called ranger William Sherman.

Sherman, along with other rangers, reversed the pressure rollers and then administered oxygen and gave treatment for shock while the farmer was being transported to the hospital.

In a second incident, rangers were notified of an injured man lying near the visitor section. The man, who apparently fell out of a speeding car, was administered first aid and transported to the hospital by rangers Sibbald Smith and Leonard Bobinchock.

Authority meeting postponed

EAST STROUDSBURG — Tuesday's meeting of the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County was postponed until 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 26 at the Carriage House Restaurant, East Stroudsburg.

The meeting had been scheduled for Walter's Charlton Restaurant, but was postponed due to the business being closed for renovations. Executive Director Kenneth Alspach said the meeting was rescheduled due to provisions of the Pennsylvania "Sunshine Law" regarding notification of meeting time and place.

On the agenda for next week's meeting will be preliminary approval of a site improvement plan for the Courtyard Plaza Neighborhood Development Project, a report of the salary committee and a report regarding federal community development program.

For the Record

In an obituary appearing in Tuesday's paper an incorrect address for a funeral home was given. Funeral services for Mrs. Rebecca Pierce of Toms River, N.J. will be held 11 a.m. Thursday at the Bishop Funeral Home, 5408 North Fifth Street, Philadelphia.

Met-Ed rate filings accessible

STROUDSBURG — Copies of Metropolitan Edison's rate filings for this year can be obtained at the Monroe County Library or the Met-Ed office in East Stroudsburg.

Walter M. Creitz, president of Metropolitan Edison, said the rate filings were placed in 26 other public libraries throughout the state to allow citizens to examine the rate increases and all supporting facts.

Creitz said the reason for using public libraries is to make sure the rate filings and all facts are easily accessible for public review.

Met-Ed filed on July 26 for a $71 million rate increase to become effective in three steps over the year. The eight per cent increase granted Met-Ed in September represents $12.7 million of the total request.

The second step is a request for $37.5 million and the third for $20.7 million.

According to Met-Ed officials, the eight per cent first step is designed to provide the utility with a return of 8.15 per cent as allowed in the previous rate increase which had been filed December, 1972, but not allowed full until March, 1974.

College newsman recognized

STROUDSBURG — Illinois State University's college newspaper, edited by Greg Pierce of Stroudsburg, has been awarded an "All-American" rating in the 1974 critical service of the National Scholastic Press Association.

Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Pierce, Stroudsburg R.D. 5, is the editor of the Vidette, which is published Tuesday through Friday each week when the university is in session.

In competition with hundreds of publications from other universities, the Vidette received marks of distinction for coverage and content, writing and editing, editorial leadership and physical appearance.

The award was based on judging of the spring semester of this year.

For the Record

Last week The Record said Jackson Township roadworkers had no paid vacation and the Supervisor Richard Normyle voted against a January salary increase for the men. The roadworkers do receive one week's vacation; Normyle did not take office until February.

Planners review guideline to improve health service

MILFORD — Pike County's Health and Planning Council will review the second in a series of position papers developed by the regional Health and Hospital Planning Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania (HHPC) at their December 2 meeting.

The paper, a guideline for the development and evaluation of acute care services in the HHPC region, is intended to aid area hospitals in improving the health status of the population.

Who's who honors E-burg girl

EAST STROUDSBURG — Cynthia Kay Lansdowne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lansdowne of 599 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, is listed among Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Miss Lansdowne, a senior at East Stroudsburg High School, is secretary of the senior band and president of the Grace Lutheran Youth Fellowship.

She includes among her activities, concert band, wind ensemble and participates in volleyball. She has been in district band two years.

Following school, Miss Lansdowne plans to attend Allentown General Hospital of Nursing.

According to Geoff Harrington, HHPC staff member, the paper has not been approved or officially considered by the HHPC board, and is, therefore, subject to revisions.

The acute services position paper is part of an overall regional health plan that includes studies for long-term care facilities, out-patient services and short-term facilities.

Since Pike County has no hospitals or acute care facilities, the report will not directly involve the Pike County Coalition. However, the Wayne Memorial Hospital, Honesdale services Pike County residents and is included in the HHPC region.

Pike County also depends heavily on the St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis and the General Hospital of Monroe County. Both hospitals are not located within the Northeastern Pennsylvania Hospital and Planning region.

Harrington said the HHPC is attempting "to keep in touch" with other regional health planning agencies making decisions that might affect Pike County residents.

Details of an economic feasibility study are also included in the report.

ESSC trustees hold hearing

Employees argue tuition exception

By JEFF WIDMER
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College trustees should waive tuition for employee dependents to attract and retain competent employees, four employees told trustees Tuesday afternoon.

Professor Arne Olson said low salaries are not the issue, but rather the waiver is being sought as an added fringe benefit to attract better qualified employees.

Olson told trustees at a hearing on whether to approve the tuition waiver that the benefit will make the college more competitive with other public and private schools.

In response to a question by a trustee, the former ESSC Dean of the Faculty of Health Sciences and Physical Education said, "Some people have not accepted offers here because this benefit (fee waiver) was available elsewhere."

William D. McFadden, president of the Assn. of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculty (APSCUF), had asked trustees Sept. 24 to waive tuition for employees and their dependents.

"Trustees waived tuition for employees, but board member Maxwell H. Cohen asked for more time to study the dependent proposal.

McFadden said fee remission is not a negotiable issue. He said during APSCUF's 1972 negotiations with the Commonwealth, the State College and University Directors "interfered" and claimed the item was negotiable.

Arbiter Eli Rock ruled APSCUF was wronged and would not be righted until seven of the 14 state colleges adopted fee remission for employee dependents, he said.

If half of the colleges do not adopt the program, the arbiter may order the Commonwealth to give faculty more money or benefits, said McFadden.

He said he did not have a "scientific estimate" of the cost of the waiver to ESSC or an estimate of the number of dependents who would take advantage of the plan.

College President Darrell Holmes said the waiver will cost less than one-tenth of one percent of the present budget for $11,400 out of the $11.4 million budget.

Michael Paskowski, ESSC's director of personnel, said, "A benefit such as this (fee waiver) will further tie to the college reliable employees." He said he spoke for up to 30 managerial, non-union college employees.

The president of the union representing 180 maintenance workers and custodians told trustees his people cannot afford to send their children to college and would like their tuition waived.

Gerald Smeltz, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), said the waiver would also "enhance the type of employee on campus" and lessen the turnover rate.

John Quain, Student Senate president, said the senate voted twice against the waiver. He said senators disagreed with APSCUF's theory that once it has free tuition, other unions will bargain for it and eventually no student will have to pay tuition for higher education.

Robert Perry, ESSC's representative of the Commonwealth Assn. of Students, called the waiver "discriminatory" and "an unwarranted subversion of Commonwealth funds." Taxpayers will eventually pay for the waiver, he said.

Trustees' Chairman Kenneth F. Lewis said, "We are going to vote on this sooner or later." He urged people to submit more information to the board if they have it.

Raises inflationary, local official says

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioner Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis said Tuesday the state legislature's move to raise elected officials' salaries by $4,000 is not appropriate in the present economic situation.

She said the legislature's action is "no attempt to rectify inflation. Continual increases on all levels are not proving or accomplishing anything."

Mrs. Shukaitis said someone should set an example of taking corrective action against inflation. "Where do we turn it around?"

"Every raise hits the taxpayer's pocket. Not all taxpayers receive increments," she said.

The proposed legislation gives a $4,000 across-the-board salary increase to officials in second through eighth class counties which includes Monroe.

If approved, the increase would be for the county commissioners, treasurer, sheriff, register and recorder, district attorney and prothonotary.

The commissioners presently receive $13,000 each; the register and recorder, and the prothonotary receive $12,000 annually; and the treasurer, sheriff, and district attorney are salaried at $11,000 each.

The jury commissioners, auditors, and coroner would receive proportional increases since their posts are not full time positions.

Any salary raises can not take effect until after an official is up for election once the bill passes.

In Monroe County, the commissioners, sheriff, register and recorder, district attorney and prothonotary are all up for election in 1975. The county treasurer who was re-elected in 1973, does not face election again until 1977.

"Everything is relative," Mrs. Shukaitis said. If our salaries go up, then others ask for raises.

"Something ought to be done," she said explaining that the legislators should not contribute to inflation "knowing that people are having a hard time making ends meet."

Mrs. Shukaitis said that in 1970 when there was a pay freeze on to control inflation, the legislature "went ahead and passed pay raises anyway."

Pay raises of approximately 10 per cent are also proposed for the state legislators and judges. Legislators have defended the proposal saying they deserve the raises to keep pace with inflation.

Shukaitis outdistancing fellow political travelers

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioner Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis has driven more than twice as many official miles this year than either of the other two commissioners.

According to travel expense vouchers submitted by the commissioners, Mrs. Shukaitis has driven 3,409 miles for approximately $375 reimbursement.

Commissioner Arlington Martin has driven 1,480 miles for about $160; and Commissioner William Quinn has driven 1,380 miles and was reimbursed $150.

For mileage, meals and other travel expenses, the commissioners have spent $1,066.71, or more than the $1,000 they allowed themselves in the budget.

A second account for association dues, expenses and conventions has less than $850 remaining out of a budgeted $2,000.

Most of the mileage expenses are for trips to meetings in Harrisburg and the Scranton areas.

More than half of the money spent from the convention account was for a convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners in Hershey which Quinn and Martin attended.

The county auditors have spent more than double the $500 they had budgeted. The three auditors have spent $544.40 for mileage and $951 for a convention in the western part of the state last month.

Other travel expenditures include the sheriff who has spent $10,643 for mileage but had only budgeted $6,000. The transfer of prisoners to the Northampton County Prison in Easton is blamed for the overrun.

The county treasurer has spent $109 out of $150 allotted for travel; the county coroner has spent $117 out of $150; and the register and recorder has spent $21.90 in travel where nothing was budgeted.

Pocono to reduce expenses

TANNERSVILLE — Pocono Township Supervisors kept taxes the same as last year and approved a proposed 1975 budget of $236,397 that is $26,727 lower than the 1974 budget.

Supervisors attributed the lower budget to an expected reduction in road maintenance costs this year.

The real estate tax will remain the same at three mills based on an assessed land valuation of $14,137,020, which is expected to yield $40,715.

The township will continue to collect a one per cent earned income tax, real estate transfer tax and a flat $5 per capita tax. Expected receipts from the taxes include: $30,000, real estate transfer tax; $85,000, one per cent earned income tax and $6,682, $5 per capita tax.

Total expenditures for 1975 are listed at $220,100 as compared to $235,002 for 1974. Some of the expected expenditures for the upcoming year include $14,600, administration; $7,500, tax collection; $3,300, municipal building; $40,000, police; $3,900, fire; $3,500, planning and zoning and $300, garbage collection.

In addition, the township has $31,527 listed in its Community Park Fund and $11,652 in its building fund. Federal revenue sharing grants to the township total $119,953, while total expenditures are listed at $95,143.

Also, the budget gave 1975 employee benefits and insurance expenditures at $36,500 with total street and road maintenance costs at $110,500.

Supervisors said the budget is available for inspection for the next 20 days.

Supervisor Paul Frailey said the lower budget reflects a reduced cost of straightening curves of L.R. 568. Frailey said the township straightened a mile and half of the road last year, but is only expected to work on four-tenths of a mile this year.

In other business, supervisors approved a request by Alan K. Cohen, director of the Monroe County Area Vocational Technical School, to build four directional signs to the school.

The new signs will be located on Bartonsville Road on Rte. 611 by Pocahontas Lodge, Bartonsville Road on Rte. 611 near Weaver's Gulf Station, at the fork of Beehler and Bartonsville Road and at the intersection of Beehler and Lake Roads.

Cohen also asked the supervisors if something could be done to grade a sharp curve on Laurel Lake and Beehler Road. Cohen said several accidents have occurred there and he described the area as "dangerous."

Environmental impact questioned

Suit challenges new park center

By STEVE DRACHLER
Pocono Record Reporter

PHILADELPHIA — Construction of a $1 million National Park Service headquarters building near Bushkill is being challenged in federal court by the Delaware Valley Conservation Assn.

A suit asking for a preliminary injunction preventing construction of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area (DWNRA) headquarters was filed Monday by Philadelphia attorneys John R. McCarron and Richard Z. Freeman.

The suit alleges the National Park Service has failed to file a final environmental impact statement on the original 1966 master plan for the recreation area and has neglected to produce a draft on a new master plan "allegedly being prepared by the Park Service."

The plaintiffs are contending the park service is not abiding by provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act, which requires that an impact statement be filed for "major federal actions significantly affecting the quality of the human environment."

"Development of the recreation area is a 'major federal action' and the headquarters is an integral component of the area," the association charged.

According to a conservation group spokesman, the park service has agreed to proceed with construction until a hearing on the suit is held.

A hearing on the motion for the injunction will be held at 9:30 a.m., Dec. 2, before District Judge R.J. Broderick in Philadelphia.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the project, located near Bushkill on a knoll, above where the lake created by the proposed Tocks Island Dam project would be, were held on Oct. 25. Congressman Joseph M. McDade, R-10, was the featured speaker.

At the time of the groundbreaking the park service said an environmental assessment of the structure and site, open for public review at the DWNRA headquarters in Columbia, N.J. for one month, produced no opposition to the plan.

A park service spokesman said Tuesday the suit has been referred to a U.S. Department of the Interior solicitor for a legal opinion.

The two-level building proposed for the headquarters will be located in the middle of the recreation area. It will replace the current headquarters in Columbia, N.J.

Mina Haeffle, DCVA president, said "It is sheer bureaucratic madness to proceed with construction on a headquarters building when it is still not known if there will or will not be a Tocks Reservoir, will or will not be a high-density recreation area or low density national park."

She said the headquarters building will pre-determine all kinds of other facilities in the park at a time when the park service is supposedly preparing a substantial revision of the eight year-old 1966 master plan.

"This is government non-planning at its worst," Mrs. Haeffle charged. "We want to know what's the hurry? The Park Service is saying build now, plan later. We say plan now, build later."

According to a spokesman for the group, the plaintiffs are concerned that a major construction project is being done inside the DWNRA when Congress has ordered a re-evaluation of the Tocks Island Dam proposal.

Two water wells planned

E-burg allocates $399,000 grant

EAST STROUDSBURG — A $399,000 grant from the state Department of Environmental Resources (DER) will lead to eventual water metering in East Stroudsburg, borough councilmen were told Tuesday by Borough Manager Donald Gage.

Gage said he expects a contract for the water system upgrading contract to come in soon from DER. After the borough approves it, the money will be available for the project.

Drilling two wells on the East Stroudsburg State College campus is a major portion of the project, Gage said, but some of the money has been designated for expanding the metering program.

There are about 60 water meters in use in East Stroudsburg now, Gage said. They measure water from various industrial and commercial firms. Water from the college is also metered.

Gage said the two wells will increase the borough's dry period yield to 1.9 million gallons a day, compared to the average use of 1.8 million gallons a day.

"Then if we install metering across the borough, we can expect a reduction of consumption of 15-20 per cent," Gage said. The reduction is due to water conservation to save money. Borough officials have been considering the various types of water metering and are expected to embark into a metering program soon.

In other business, councilmen gave their approval to preliminary site plans for the Courtland Plaza Neighborhood Development Project pending approval by the engineer.

Planning commission member Gabriel Kolcun submitted his resignation from the board and was then appointed to a vacant post on the zoning hearing board. West Broad Street resident Peter Treible was appointed to take Kolcun's position.

Stroud tabulates plan priorities

The preliminary analysis broke the responses down into five categories. They are: home services; neighborhood and community services; transportation; beautification and environment; and other.

Rated a third priority under home services was the functioning of on-lot sewage systems.

Safety at school bus stops was rated as the major problem under neighborhood and community services. Second was police protection and pet control rated third.

The survey showed that out of the 30.1 per cent of the population that responded to the questionnaire, most believed fire and police protection adequate.

Under the other category, sewage disposal was rated as a major concern by a large majority of persons. A township park was a second concern and street lighting was not rated as that large a problem.

To enhance the beauty of the township and maintain a good environment, people urged billboard and sign control and recycling of papers.

Pie goals score for funds

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg football coaches "took it on the chin" as they slapped cranberries in each other's faces, helping to collect $1,207.50 for the benefit of the Monroe County Unit of the Arthritis Foundation.

Rival coaches Dick Merring of East Stroudsburg and Fred Ross of Stroudsburg staged a mock football game in the ballroom of the Penn Stroud Hilton Tuesday from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Scoring was based on money pledges phoned in for the schools. For every $100 phoned in, a touchdown was scored and the rival coach received a pie in the face.

"He throws a mean pie," Fred Ross of Stroudsburg said pointing to Dick Merring and laughing.

The two and a half hour broadcast featured various entertainment acts, including Monroe County Commissioner Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis singing and playing the piano with a friend, "Rooster."

TAKE THAT! — East Stroudsburg coach Dick Merring delivers a "smashing" blow to the Stroudsburg Mounties, personified in Fred Ross, last night in a pie-everywhere-but-in-the-sky benefit held for the Arthritis Foundation at the Penn Stroud Hilton. (Staff photo by Brian Heller)

Can-Am series terminated

DENVER (UPI) — Jackie Oliver will have to find another auto racing series to conquer.

Oliver, a British driver, won the abbreviated Can-Am American Challenge Cup this year in a Shadow, but will not be able to defend his title next year. The Sports Car Club of America disbanded the series for lack of support from promoters, racing teams and manufacturers.

"After nine years as North America's premier road racing series, the high cost of Can-Am participation brought about the need for change," said Cameron R. Argetzinger, SCCA's executive director and director of professional racing.

"Notwithstanding a reduction in investment through implementation of the 5-liter stock block and 3-liter racing engine specifications for the 1975 Can-Am, constructors and entrants find today's economic climate again rapidly escalating costs and therefore felt unable to offer race promoters and the SCCA firm commitments for participation in 1975."

Argetzinger said constructors and entrants felt they needed guarantees of a minimum number of series events.

Varsity 'S' to meet at Elks

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Varsity "S" Assn. of Stroudsburg High School will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Elks Home.

In addition to the regularly featured highlights of the past weekend's Stroudsburg football game, Stroudsburg athletic director Wayne Hulsizer will be on hand to discuss the general state of the athletic program at Stroudsburg.

A topic of special interest should be Stroudsburg's resignation from the Lehigh Valley League, effective the close of the current school year. An open question-and-answer session will follow, with a buffet luncheon topping off the evening.

Mountainers' coach Fred Ross will be on hand to discuss Stroudsburg's 30-8 loss to Northampton.

Late Frazier tap-in gives Knicks victory over Bullets

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York cut down a big lead by the Washington Bullets with sharp, gambling defense and Walt Frazier provided the winning points with a tap with one second left for an 86-85 victory Tuesday night.

Frazier followed up a shot by John Gianelli, leaped over the outstretched arms of Washington's Elvin Hayes and tapped in the shot to end a stretch scoring duel between the two teams. Frazier, who pulled down 16 rebounds, matching his career high, intentionally missed the foul shot he was awarded on the play, allowing time to run out.

The lead changed 11 times in the last eight minutes.

Hayes dominated the game in the first half. He pulled down eight defensive rebounds, scored 18 points to give his team a 55-43 halftime lead.

But New York gambled more on defense in the third quarter and Washington started making mistakes.

Earl Monroe paced New York with 22 points but Frazier was the star of the game for the Knicks with 17 points to go with his outstanding rebounding. He also collected six assists.

Hayes finished with 24 points for Washington and Wes Unseld had 18.

Sports tidbits

Some of this, some of that and back at the desk after a day fighting a bad cold.

Kozlosky gains ECAC honors

East Stroudsburg State College linebacker Tom Kozlosky, wrapping up a year which may surpass that of any other middle linebacker in the school's history and a glittering career as well, has again been named to the Eastern College Athletic Conference Division II honor roll for his performance in the Warriors' season-ending 28-7 loss to Indiana.

Kozlosky, probably a sure bet for All-America honors, was in on 17 tackles as he made the ECAC honor list for the seventh time this season.

Petchel to face Pitt

Pen Argyl's Woody Petchel, the third leading ground gainer for Penn State, will be with the Nittany Lions Thanksgiving night when they journey to Pittsburgh to face the rejuvenated Panthers.

Petchel has picked up 266 yards in 77 carries for the Lions, who sport an 8-2 mark entering the game which will mean a lot to Eastern football since the Panthers are billing themselves as the top team in the East. The Nittany Lions will probably beg to differ.

Brown, Somers at Syracuse

Stroudsburg graduates Bill Brown and Dan Somers are listed as members of the Syracuse traveling squad which journeys to Miami for Friday night's Syracuse-Miami battle in the Orange Bowl.

Brown is listed at second guard behind starter Kevin Moss for the Orangemen, who are 2-8 this season, while Somers is listed at second middle guard behind starter John Henehan.

Leopard winter sports

Lafayette is set to open its winter seasons soon and the Leopards have a pair of local athletes listed on pre-season rosters, both being freshmen.

Steve Baratta of Bangor is listed on the Lafayette freshman basketball team coached by Norm Gigon. Baratta, a 6-1, 155-pounder who played his high school ball under Bill Pensyl at Bangor, is listed as a guard.

Freshman Marc Keuler of East Stroudsburg is listed on the Leopards' wrestling roster at 150 pounds. Keuler and four other freshmen are listed at that weight class, with the Leopards going with youth in that class.

And whatever became of Stan Lopata?

Conference crown on line at ESSC stadium

Warriors face Rockets for soccer title

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College will be seeking its third straight Pennsylvania Conference soccer championship when it plays host to Slippery Rock today at 1 p.m. at the ESSC Stadium.

The Warriors, 10-3-1, won the PC Eastern Division title while Slippery Rock, 16-1-1, took the Western Division crown. This will be a repeat of the matchup for the 1973 championship game, won by East Stroudsburg, 3-2.

Both teams were eliminated from national soccer tournament action last Saturday. East Stroudsburg lost to Loyola of Baltimore, 2-0, in a first-round game of the NCAA Division II Soccer Tournament. Slippery Rock was beaten by Davis and Elkins, 6-1, in the Area Six Championship of the NAIA Soccer Tournament.

The Rockets boast the best offensive statistics of any team East Stroudsburg has met this season. They have scored 71 goals in 18 games, an average of almost four goals per game.

Art Rex, a sophomore from Glenshaw, Pa., has booted in 25 goals, scoring the 'hat trick' with three goals in three different games. Rex was the top scorer on Slippery Rock's 1972 team but was out of school last year.

Senior Mike Dichov has scored 14 goals and sophomore Kamal Hauari, the team's leading scorer last season, has added 12.

The Rockets have a strong halfback line with Steve Allison and Gary Spahr and a talented inside fullback in senior captain Jim Frederick. Goalie Paul Richards has allowed 18 goals in 16 games, an average of 1.1 per game.

Jim Figh is in his 19th year as Slippery Rock soccer coach with a career record of 130 wins, 80 losses and 26 ties. He is a graduate of East Stroudsburg where he played football, basketball and baseball.

The Warriors had their 11-game undefeated streak ended at Loyola. They gave up two first-half goals and then dominated play in the second half, but could not score.

Coach John McKeon's team has a much lower scoring average than Slippery Rock with 31 goals in 14 games, an average of 2.8 per game.

Charlie Kish is the team's leading scorer with 13 goals which included 'hat tricks' in wins over Bridgeport and Kutztown. Halfback Blaz Stimac has contributed five goals.

Kish is one of five ESSC players who will be ending their collegiate soccer careers Wednesday. The others are halfback Ron Quinn, fullbacks Jack Evans and Al Granger and goalie Bob Stetler, who has allowed 15 goals in 14 games, an average of 1.1 per game.

The Warriors faced eight teams which qualified for post-season tournament play and scored wins over Division I schools Bridgeport, 4-1, and Hartwick, 3-2. Slippery Rock met only two tournament-bound teams.

BIDDING FOR TITLE — Tri-captains Al Granger (left), Bob Stetler (center) and Charlie Kish will lead the East Stroudsburg State College soccer team against Slippery Rock today at 1 p.m. in the Pennsylvania Conference championship game at the ESSC Stadium. All three are seniors and will be closing their college soccer careers.

Reported NFL roster cuts re-kindle smoldering feud

NEW YORK (UPI) — The interpretation of a two-paragraph letter sent by John Thompson, head of the National Football League Management Council, to Edward Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, touched off another dispute Tuesday in the long-standing feud between the two groups.

Garvey attended a practice of the New York Jets early in the day and then told the players that Thompson had advised him in a note that NFL owners planned to reduce team rosters next season from 47 to 36. If such a move went into effect, a total 286 players would lose their jobs.

"I got a letter from John Thompson dated Oct. 22 advising me that the squad limit would return to 36," Garvey said after a 90-minute meeting with Jet players. "All player reps have been told and it will appear in our newsletter this week."

However, a spokesman for the Management Council countered that Garvey had placed a false interpretation on the letter and that, in fact, the situation remains basically the same as it has been for the last decade.

"The constitution and by-laws of the NFL have provided every year since 1964 for a 36-man player limit," said Terry Bledsoe, the director of information for the Management Council. "The letter Garvey refers to is one in which John Thompson reminded him that the increase in roster adapted for the 1974 season arose from a special situation brought about by the NFL players' strike and is not to be considered a change in the basic active player limit per club of 36 or less."

Each spring, the owners meet to set a roster figure for the coming season. It had been set at 40 with seven on the "move" list until the current season, when NFL owners permitted 47 players on the active list because of the disruptions caused by the strike.

In the note, Bledsoe said, Thompson merely was advising Garvey that the current 47-man roster should not be considered a precedent.

Garvey, in his talk to the Jets, said, "I don't believe they can go to 36. They kept it at 47 this season for a lot of reasons—the World Football League, cooling off and expansion. But putting the load of 47 players on 36 constitutes a major problem."

Garvey later told newsmen, "In 1970 the owners agreed to keep the squad at 40 players but said they had a substantial group that wanted less. (Cleveland owner Art Modell argued vigorously against the union telling him how many players he could or could not keep.)"

Modell, when informed in Cleveland of Garvey's announcement of the roster reduction, said, "This is typical of Ed Garvey. He has everything right but the facts."

A spokesman for the Pittsburgh Steelers said that such a move would be "a legislative matter which would require the approval of 20 of the 26 teams as an amendment to the constitution."

"Certainly, it would be difficult to play with that number, especially with the intensity with which the game is played today."

The NFL is scheduled to expand to Tampa and Seattle effective in 1976, but Garvey said the union rejects the idea of an expansion draft.

"We don't concede the fact that they can have an expansion draft," Garvey said. "It constitutes a change in working conditions. But I make fewer absolute statements than a year ago."

Steve Tannen, the Jets' player rep, said the players received the news with little emotion.

"It's hard to get reaction about anything in the middle of a season," the Jet defensive back said. "The Players Association is hard to keep in the uppermost of your mind when you're thinking about trying to win games. The only time you hear about the Players Association during the season is when there's a grievance."

European cage loop holds draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gene Moore, 6-foot-10-inch former player in both U.S. professional leagues, was Barcelona's choice as the first man picked today as the eight-team European Professional Basketball League conducted its first player draft.

The league, plans for which first were announced several weeks ago under the name International Basketball Association, plans to begin play next Jan. 17 for a 42-game season for each team, 21 games at home and 21 away. After the regular season, the league plans a double-elimination championship tournament involving all eight teams.

Besides Barcelona, the league teams—made up entirely of U.S. players—are Madrid, London, Belgium, Tel Aviv, Munich, Grenoble-Lyon (France) and Switzerland.

"We plan no salary war with the established U.S. professional leagues, the National Basketball Association (NBA) and the American Basketball Association (ABA)," said Dick Davis, former San Diego State College coach who is the administrator of the new league.

"We will not even draft a player who is now on an NBA or ABA roster," Davis added. "We will start with U.S. players and we believe we can offer European fans better basketball than they see now, make our league the top league in Europe, and then add the very best European players to our rosters in years to come."

He said each team is limited to a total payroll of $200,000, but that there is no specific limit for individual contracts—"if they want, a team could give one player $100,000 and divide the rest among the other players, but of course that's very unlikely," Davis said.

Each team picked 30 players in today's draft, including player-coaches John Vallely for the Belgium Lions and Larry Jones for Munich.

Haskell Cohen, veteran public relations man for U.S. professional teams, will be Tel Aviv's general manager.

A's Washington anxious to return to pro track

NEW YORK (UPI) — Herb Washington, the world's fastest human, is anxious to get on the blocks now that his unique role as baseball's only designated runner has been mothballed until next spring.

Clacked in bullet-like speed, for track, in 5.8 seconds for the 60-yard dash and 5.6 for 50 yards, the affable base stealer is preparing for the International Track Association's third pro season.

Washington is a member of an elite group of pros who graduated from scholarship and expense funds to the run-for-pay ranks. His teammates include New Zealand long jump "flip" specialist John Delamere, indoor record pole vaulter Steve Smith, high hurdler Rod Milburn, middle distance runner Dave Wottle and Kenyan Ben Jipcho.

They'll compete in a 17 city 3-M Company sponsored tour that starts in Montreal Jan. 17 and concludes in London on June 20.

Japan was dropped from next year's calendar "because their economic situation is even worse than that of America," explained I.T.A. Promoter John O'Hara Tuesday.

"Track stars usually must wait four years between Olympics, but now they have an opportunity to compete on a steady six-month program," O'Hara added. "In addition, it provides an incentive to high school stars who otherwise have nothing to look forward to beyond college and allows college trackmen to begin thinking of making money from their athletic prowess after graduation."

O'Hara emphasized that this also provides one of the few opportunities for trackmen to cut a piece of the commercial pie with endorsements.

Washington is cast a shade above the rest since he makes money in two sports—a little in track and lots more in baseball.

"It's nice to be back in a sport less hostile than baseball at World Series time," Washington says. "Although after a year with the Oakland A's you learn to relax and face any adversities."

Delamere, who made his long jump flip as famous as the Fosbury Flop, "and," he says, "less dangerous," has cleared 25 feet, six inches with his new style.

"When I did the flip last year, everything suddenly came on quickly for me," said the New Zealander who launches into a complete somersault.

Camelback finalizing 'ski school' plans

TANNERSVILLE — Marilyn Hertz, newly appointed ski school director of Camelback Ski Area has announced the final plans that are being made in the organization of the Camelback School. Ms. Hertz, ASTAN certified instructor, examiner and president of the American Ski Teachers Association of Natur Teknik, will be directing the largest ski school in Pennsylvania staffed by over 70 instructors.

Formerly director of the Big Boulder Ski School, she has returned to Camelback, the area at which she started her ski teaching career eleven years ago. She has brought with her the innovative American Parallel Teaching Method using Graduated Length Skis and a staff of instructors. This teaching method has been widely acclaimed by ski publications.

During her first of a series of intensive training sessions for Camelback instructors, she announced the appointments of Ted Johnson and Dennis Mooney, ski school supervisors.

"Our first training session," Ms. Hertz noted, "deals with the psychological factors involved in teaching skiing. I must admit this is a most unusual approach in training instructors, but it is of extreme importance. Learning to ski is great fun and very easy if taught with understanding."

The Camelback Ski School will be one of the most progressive schools in the United States. It is student oriented and accelerates the learning process. "Personal attention is the philosophy of our school," continued Ms. Hertz.

The training of the ski school coincides with the November 14-24 dates designated as the national "It's Get Ready To Ski Time" reminding skiers that the beautiful white snow is on its way and the fun of winter will soon begin.

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Some misleading influences. Watch out for any attempt to break or default on contracts, other agreements.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Some disturbance in career matters could cause you to be unnecessarily abrupt with loved ones. Don't let this happen or you will regret it later.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — If you maneuver skillfully enough, you can gain some advantageous fringe benefits in a business negotiation.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Accent is now on travel. A trip taken in connection with a legal issue could have an especially fortunate outcome.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Some unpredictable associates need watching now. One or the other could try to "muscle in" on one of your pet solo ventures.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — One of those days when a snap decision could turn out surprisingly well. You ordinarily deliberate carefully in all situations, but right now a hunch will pay off.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Introduce a new note — perhaps a new approach — to give more spark to day's doings. Output will substantially improve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to November 23) — Go after the big gains but do not expect to have things your way all along the line. Be prepared for some opposition and you can meet it more easily.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — A tabulation of "musts" may uncover a weak program — one that should be pepped up to show your abilities to better advantage.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Not much planetary help here. How the day turns out will be largely up to yourself. Use your wits to project the effective and eliminate the mediocre.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Look well into proposed suggestions or you may find yourself involved where you least desire it. Some definite "no" answers will be required.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Avoid tendencies toward restlessness and unkindness. Note warning signals. Many errors and misguided moves can thus be averted. Shun extremes.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with both mental alertness and manual dexterity. You have a flair for gracious living and have real know-how when it comes to dealing with people, separately or collectively.

The bidding:
South West North East
4♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead—three of clubs.

This deal was played in a European championship match between Switzerland and Italy. At both tables a club was led against four spades.

The play varied after the first trick, but Souths went down one. The Swiss declarer took the ace of clubs and played the ace and another diamond, planning to ruff a diamond in dummy for his tenth trick.

East won the diamond with the queen and returned a trump to the king. Declarer now discarded a heart on the king of clubs, planning to come back to his hand to ruff a diamond in dummy.

But West ruffed the king of clubs, returned a trump and South went down one, losing three diamond tricks and a trump.

The Italian declarer fared just as badly. He played a trump to the king at trick two and discarded a heart on the king of clubs at trick three. West ruffed, returned a trump, and South eventually lost three diamond tricks to go down one.

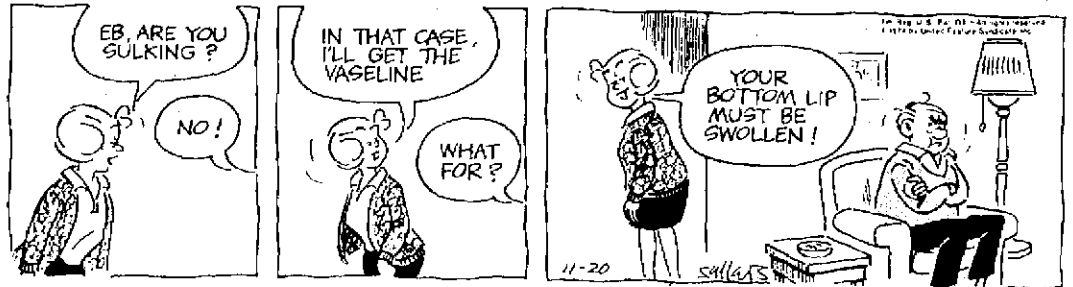

So the hand turned out to be a tie, each declarer's bad play being offset by another of the same ilk at the other table. Both Souths went down while trying for an unimportant overtrick.

The safest approach, after the club lead, is to play the ace and another diamond. Assuming a trump return, declarer ruffs a low club with the eight and trumps a diamond in dummy. He then discards a loser on the king of clubs and makes four.

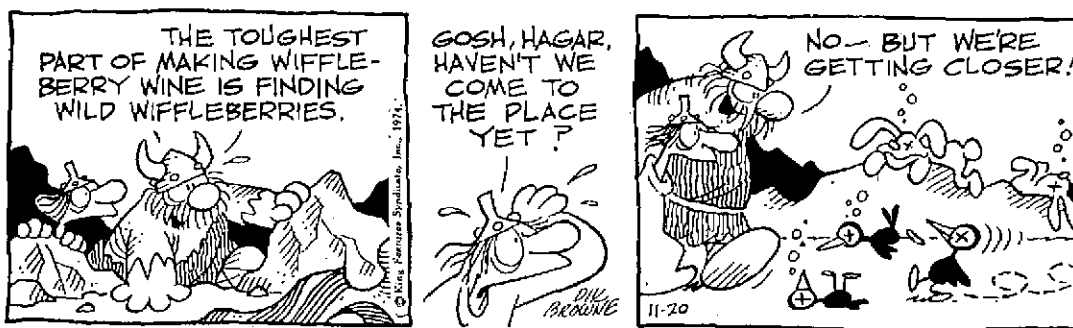

It is odd that two well-known international stars, playing in an important event, each went down in a basically simple hand. They failed to apply the golden rule that making certain of the contract is the first consideration.

Ann Landers

Preventing 'mistakes'

Dear Ann Landers: Where are all those advocates of premarital sex when it comes time to pick up the pieces after a "momentary mistake"? And what do the advocates do to help prevent such "mistakes"? Do they tell the kids that though a relationship may be "meaningful" to one partner it may be purely self-satisfaction, an ego trip, or mere condescension on the part of the other?

Do they tell the kids that a "meaningful relationship" may be so meaningful that one partner may have an overwhelming desire to cement that relationship with a child? Do they tell the kids they should NEVER count on the other person to take precautions — and that to be perfectly safe, both parties should count on themselves? Do they tell the kids that a girl's most intense desires are very likely to accompany her most fertile time? ("Just this once?")

Do they tell the kids that a person's "love" might be severely dampened by resentment and turn to full-fledged hate should that person feel trapped? Do they tell the kids that alternative solutions to an unwanted pregnancy are vastly more difficult to handle than coping with the challenges of virginity? Do they tell the kids that the legality of abortion is insignificant compared to the emotional trauma? Do they tell the kids that giving up a child for adoption is no simple matter for anyone who has had a "meaningful relationship"?

Do they tell the girls that keeping an out-of-wedlock baby goes far beyond the enjoyment of having a cute little bundle of joy to cuddle and take for a stroll in the perambulator?

Where are those advocates of premarital sex when it's time to mend lives suffering from their advice?

A Shoulder To Cry On
Dear Shoulder: Thank you for a good letter. I'm glad you offered your shoulder to "cry on." Mine is already the wettest in the U.S.A. (Are you listening, students?)

Dear Ann Landers: We came to the United States from the Netherlands a year ago and like it very much. There are two things about your country we cannot understand. A company that sells fried chicken advertises that it is "finger-lickin' good." In our country, children learn table manners. Licking the fingers is considered vulgar. We do not want our children to imitate this custom. What should we tell them?

The second thing is the way your clergymen run to the front door of the church after the worship service and sermon to collect compliments. They shake hands with all who leave and revel in the high praise of their sermon. This is completely foreign to us and we would like to avoid it. How?

New Americans

Dear New: In America it is considered O.K. to eat crisp fried chicken with the hands. If you don't want your children to lick their fingers, tell them to use silverware.

In some churches it is customary for the clergymen to shake hands with the members of his congregation after the service. If this bothers you, take another exit or find another church.

Athletic banquets

Next time you attend an Athletic Awards banquet, catch the look on the faces of the mothers as the accomplishments of their sons and daughters are revealed. By intense concentration, you can sometimes read their thoughts.

"Mark is probably one of the best sprinters I've had in my entire career here at So High. Hang onto your hats, people. Mark ran the 100-yard dash in 9.9!"

("Had to be nine days and nine hours. I once asked him to run out the garbage and it sat by the sink until it turned into a bookend.")

"I don't know what the baseball team would do with Charlie. We've had chatters on the team before who get the guys whipped up, but Charlie is the all-time chatterer. There isn't a moment when he isn't saying something to spark the team."

(Charlie speaks six words to me a week: "When you going to the store?")

"For those of you who don't really understand field events, I want to explain about the shot put. It's a ball weighing eight pounds that was thrown 100 feet by an outstanding athlete here at So . . . Wesley Whip."

("That's funny. Wesley looks like the same boy who delivers my paper and can't heave a six-ounce Saturday edition all the way from his bike to my porch.")

"Wolf-Man Gus will go down in football annals as one of the all-time greats here at So High. In the game with Central, Gus scored the winning touchdown despite a chipped bone in his ankle, a dislocated shoulder and a fever of 103."

("So how come Wolf-Man Gus stays home from school everytime he has his teeth cleaned?")

"I don't suppose anyone has better reflexes in this entire state than our outstanding basketball rebounder, Tim Rim. When the Good Lord passed out coordination, Tim was first in line."

("Tim is 17 years old and I can still only pour him a half glass of milk because that's all I want to clean up.")

("Tennis is a gentleman's game. This year's recipient of the Court Courtesy award is none other than So High's Goodwill Ambassador, Stevie Cool.")

("He's come a long way since he tried to break his brother's face last week when he took a record album without asking.")

"The swimming team would never have made it this year without our plucky little manager, Paul Franswarth. Paul picks up those wet towels off the floor, hangs up the suits to dry, and is responsible for putting all the gear back where it belongs."

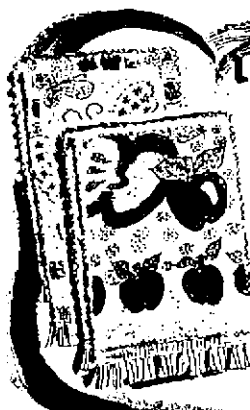

("Let's go home, Ed. I feel sick.")
